Council Amends Zoning Law To Let Label Firm Expand

At a special meeting Friday night, City Council passed an emergency measure an ordinance for the rezoning of an area on S. Lundy Ave. which will permit the Salem Label Company to proceed with a $175,000 building expansion program.

Action followed a public hearing at city hall on the rezoning. No major objections were voiced at the meeting that lasted less than 30 minutes.

The rezoning will change the area from R-1 (single family residence) to C-1 (heavy commercial).

Salem's Planning Commission had earlier approved the change unanimously and the change was also supported by the Salem Area Development Corporation (SAIDC).

Attending last night's meeting were representatives of Council the mayor, members of the SAIDC and several residents of the area concerned. The only matters discussed were the burning of papers by the firm and the closeness of its new addition to the property line.

The company agreed to have all its papers hauled away and it was pointed out to the group that buildings will be five feet within the property lines.

The proposed expansion plan outlined by the Label Co. will give it an additional 18,500 square feet of floor space. New machines and materials will also be added. A substantial number of employees are expected to be added eventually.

Label Firm 100 Years Old

Josiah Mitchell, an English immigrant who came from Salem to Baltimore in 1862, founded the label company.

While working as a clerk in a local drug store, Mitchell noticed the lack of gummed labels, such as were used in England. He began making them in his spare time and was later joined by Alfred Wright, who was the first Mayor of Salem in 1855.

The firm later became part of the Salem News and Brush-Moore Newspapers but was sold in 1950 to Henry J. Anderson.

Salem Label was incorporated in October of 1956, with Anderson as president. Other officers are Charles F. Fox, secretary - treasurer; and W. Eugene Young, vice-president.

Sales have doubled in the last five years and increased fifteen-fold in 12 years.

The company was located on E.

In 1950, the fire employed eight people. By 1956, the enterprise had 35 employees and now has 71 on the payroll. Almost half of the present employees own stock in the company.

Salem Label is one of the major suppliers in the United States of labels and printed packaging for meat packers, bakeries, supermarkets and other food industries.

Labels made by the local firm are used widely in such other industries such as steel, chemicals, pharmaceuticals, plastics, electrical, household appliances and many others.

The firm has customers from all over the country, but its major market is in the East and Middle West.

The company's facilities enable it to manufacture practically any type of label in individually cut or roll form from about any kind of foil or film such as aluminum, cellophane, polyethylene, cellulose acetate, mylar, vinyl, and many grades of paper and paper board.

Quick End to Strike In Sight

Accord Reached By UAW, Ford Co.

CLEVELAND (AP) — A quick end to the crippling local strike which resulted in layoffs of 77,000 Ford Motor Co. employees across the country was in sight today.

Top-level negotiators for Ford and the United Auto Workers union (UAW) reached agreement Friday night to settle all issues involved in the 17-day-old strike at the suburban Walton Hills stamping plant.

The 3,200 members of UAW Local 420 will be called upon to ratify the agreement Sunday morning. No details will be issued until then.

A joint announcement of the agreement was made by Manton M. (Mike) Cummings, Ford's director of labor relations, and Ken Bannion, chief of the union's Ford department. Both bargaining teams had been meeting with federal mediators.

The chief argument in the production standards dispute involved how many quarter panels should be turned out. The union claimed that only 237 of the 16-pound panels—used on passenger automobiles—could be produced

Flight Engineers Poised To Strike 2 Airlines Today

NEW YORK (AP)—The Flight Engineers International Association, AFL-CIO, said it would strike Eastern Air Lines and Pan American World Airways at 1 p.m. EST today despite a National Mediation Board offer to step in as peacemaker.

"All the mechanics for a peaceful settlement of this dispute were exhausted long ago," a union spokesman said Friday night in announcing the union would carry out the strike regardless of the board's offer.

Eastern Air Lines President Malcolm A. MacIntyre said a strike would force the airline to shut down operations. A Pan American official said Pan Am would continue to operate, but he didn't say how.

Settlement Rejected

The union announced Friday it would strike unless new contracts were reached. It rejected as "completely unsatisfactory" the proposed settlement worked out for a similar dispute between the engineers and Trans World Airlines.

The tentative TWA agreement, reached with the aid of Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, is subject to approval by union members employed by the line. It would resolve a two-year dispute on manning of jet cockpits.

In telegrams Friday night to the union, Eastern and Pan Am, the National Mediation Board asked that no strike action be taken pending a proposed meeting here Monday between their negotiators and board member Francis O'Neil Jr.

Board member Robert O. Boyd said in Washington it was the board's opinion that, in offering its services, both sides are required under terms of the Railway Labor Act to maintain the status quo.

But Boyd added that he could not go so far as to say that a strike now would be illegal.

No Enforcement Power

He said the board has "no enforcement power" and added that it would be up to the courts to clarify the situation if the strike took place despite invoking the Railway Labor Act.

The board acted in the dispute under a section of the act which says the board "may offer its services in case any labor emergency is found by it to exist at any time."

The heart of the dispute between the engineers and airlines, as well as the Air Line Pilots Association, AFL-CIO, is how to reduce the four-man jet cockpit crews to the three men recommended by a presidential advisory commission. Neither the engineers nor the pilots union wants to lose a man. The proposed TWA settlement provides that engineers would learn to become pilots through training given by the air lines and that engineers would be given preference over pilots for the third seat in the jet cockpit.

Laotian King Installs Cabinet

Follows Resignation Of Anti-Red Group

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—King Savang Vathana of Laos today installed the 19-man coalition cabinet headed by neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma.

Premier Prince Boun Oum and the ministers of his anti-Communist Vientiane regime submitted their resignations earlier in the day and cleared the way for the new government, which the United States hopes will take Laos out of the cold war.

Boun Oum stepped out after an 18-month term in office marked by civil war and the growing power of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao. The United States joined the Soviet Union and other big nations in pressing the right-wing Vientiane government to step aside for the coalition of conservatives, neutralists and pro-Communists.

Boun Oum, Souvanna and Prince Souphanouvong of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao agreed June 13 on the formation of the new cabinet. But bickering up until the last minute threatened to shatter the agreement even before the coalition took office.

Final agreement on the disputed wording of the installation decree was hammered out Friday and the stage was set for today's ceremonies.

Prince Souphanouvong, leader of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao, arrived here according to plan from the rebel-held Plaine Des Jarres to take office later in the day as a deputy premier. Accompanying him were seven other Pathet Lao and neutralist coalition ministers.

Prince Souvanna Phouma, the neutralist premier-designate, announced Friday that political leaders had reached an agreement on the inauguration procedure after a hassle had threatened to torpedo arrangements.

The dispute revolved around leftist objections to any official role by the rightist dominated LISBON — The East Liverpool water department fund shortage will highlight the presentations to the recalled April grand jury which will report Monday for a two-day session, according to Prosecutor G. William Brokaw.

The 15-member jury has been notified to report and 100 other prospective jurors have been called in case some members of the panel are not able to appear.

A finding for recovery of $23,841 against a former chief clerk in the East Liverpool water and sewer department and her surety was made in a state examiner's report submitted Thursday to State Auditor James L. Rhodes.

Named in the report, which covered a 31-month period from May 1, 1959, through Nov. 30, 1961, were Roberta C. Smith, 36, and her bonding company, the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Co.

Miss Smith who was covered by a $5,000 blanket bond, was relieved of her duties Nov. 28, two days before the close of the audit.

Other cases to be presented include:

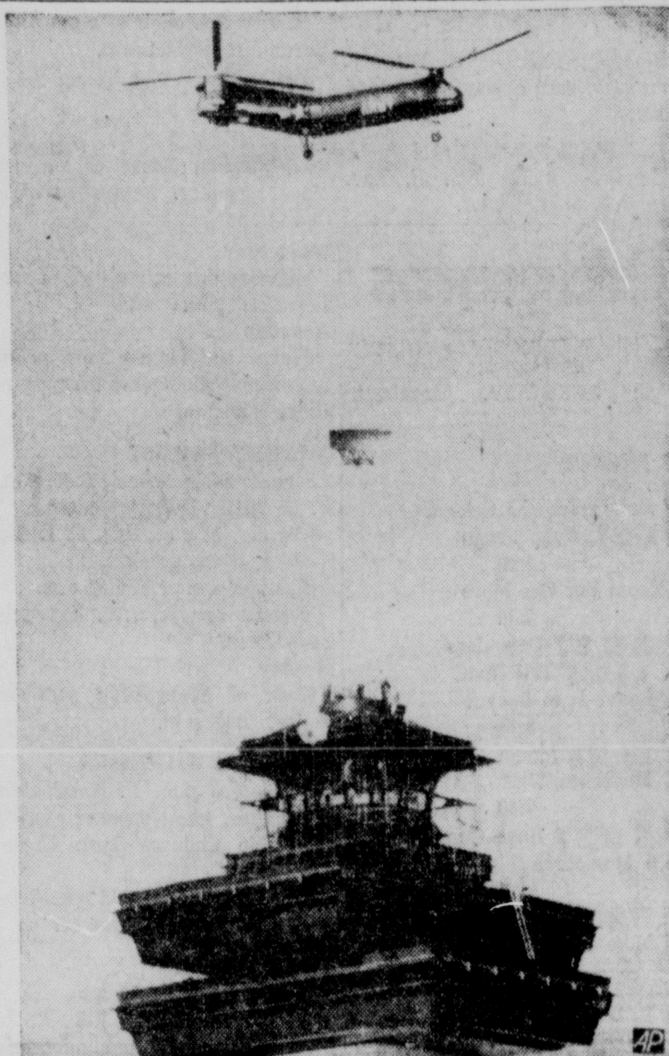

John Goempel, East Liverpool, and Thomas Henry Lawrence, Lisbon RD 3, charged with auto larceny and malicious entry of the office of the Caplan scrap yard in East Liverpool.

Lawrence and Jimmy Lee Kraft of East Liverpool, breaking and entering of the Disabled American Veterans Club of West Point in the night season to commit larceny.

William L. Johnson, 30, and Emmett Perkins, 24, both of Campbell, burglary of J & E Records.

Both Parties Are Stunned By Proposal

Ex-President Says Outlay Reflects Unjustified Fears

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower stunned Republicans as well as Democrats Friday night with a call for substantial cuts in the nation's $51.6-billion defense budget.

The former president's unexpected assertion that current military spending reflects "unjustified fears, plus a reluctance in some quarters to relinquish outmoded concepts" caught Republican congressional leaders short.

Did Not Elaborate

Eisenhower did not elaborate. He did not say where he would cut the defense spending which has been regarded by both parties as sacrosanct and above the debate over balancing the budget.

The former president bluntly put it this way at a $100-a-plate Republican party dinner:

"On the military side, we Republicans will continue to work across the political aisle for strength unencumbered by waste, and strength not loaded by hysteria."

"Here I must record my personal belief that substantial amounts in our current defense budget reflect unjustified fears, plus a reluctance in some quarters to relinquish outmoded concepts."

"Accordingly, I personally believe—with I am sure very little company in either party—that the defense budget should be substantially reduced."

No Objection By GOP

Democrats have contended in almost every instance that President Kennedy's increased defense spending, aimed largely at beefing up conventional ground forces, was completely justified. Republicans have not objected to the more than $2-billion increase Kennedy made in that budget.

Rep. Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, the House Republican leader, swallowed a bit and said he was not really too surprised by Eisenhower's statement.

"Gen. Eisenhower remains the best authority in the country on

The Rev. and Mrs. Mark George and family are attending the North-East Ohio Methodist Conference at Lakeside, Philip Converse of the Lower Elkton Rd. will serve in the pulpit Sunday.

Blame spray in death
HILLSBORO, Ohio (AP)—Authorities blame an insect bomb for the death of Paul C. Murphy, 48, who was found dead Friday shortly after he sprayed his bedroom with the insecticide.

The Highland County coroner ruled this the cause of Murphy's death after tests showed a congestion of the spray in his lungs. The spray contains about 2 per cent DDT, he said.

Rev. Don Winters

Evening Services Are Scheduled at Calvary Church

Rev. Don Winters of Coshocton will open a week-long series of evangelistic services Sunday night at the Calvary Baptist Church. The services will continue at 7:30 p.m. through July.

Rev. Winters, with many years of experience in pastorates and evangelism, will also speak at the 1 a.m. worship services this Sunday and next.

In May the evangelist held meetings in Ohio and New Jersey and also was one of the speakers at the 31st annual conference of the General Association of Regular Baptist Churches in Springfield, Mass.

The Calvary Baptist Church on N. Ellsworth Ave., one of 1,632 fundamental Baptist churches in the United States, has recently doubled its parking lot space, due to increased attendance and anticipation of the evangelistic meetings reports Rev. C. Leslie Wells, pastor.

Rev. Wells says the public is invited to the evangelistic worship featuring old-time hymns, special music and Rev. Winters' sermons.

Rev. Walker Attending Church Convention

Rev. Ruben Walker, pastor of the Salem A.M.E. Zion Church, is attending the 47th annual session of the Ohio Conference of A.M.E. Zion Churches at Caldwell Temple in Columbus. The six-day convention will end Sunday.

In the absence of Rev. Walker, Sunday services will be conducted at 11 a.m. by Rev. J. B. Cooper, formerly pastor of St. Luke A.M.E. Church in Alliance.

The Columbus session is being presided over by Rt. Rev. Stephen Gill Spotswood, assisted by Rt. Rev. Joseph Dixon Cauthen, associate bishop.

The Doctor Says

By DR. H. T. HYMAN

Questions and Answers

Q—I am a member of a family of diabetics both on my mother's and my father's sides. I am about to be married and I would like you to tell me whether pregnancy will cause me to become diabetic. I have never had any signs of diabetes before and, when I had my premarital examination, my blood sugar test was normal.

A—In a healthy woman, according to studies recently completed in South Africa, neither a single nor repeated pregnancies caused a true diabetes mellitus. However, pregnancy may bring out a latent diabetic condition provided that the tendency already existed.

You state that your blood sugar test was normal. If by that you mean that the level was within normal limits when blood was drawn in the fasting state, that information is insufficient for present purposes.

To determine whether or not you have a tendency to diabetes, as your family histories suggest, you should have a sugar tolerance test made. Your doctor will tell you just how this test is conducted and I would urge you to have it done before your marriage.

Q—My husband was operated on for a stomach ulcer and, while his symptoms are different than they were before operation, he continues to be miserable.

He has a poor appetite, constant distress and nothing seems to agree with him although I try to cook everything just as he used to like it and serve only those foods that he used to enjoy.

Can nothing be done to help him? He has had vitamin shots and a medicine cabinet full of digestants that we've tried without relief. He has lost over 20 pounds since leaving the hospital and has not yet been able to go back to work.

A—What you describe may be what's called the "dumping syndrome" that may follow removal of the greater part of the stomach (subtotal gastrectomy).

If so, I'm afraid he will not respond to medication and certainly not to vitamin shots, except perhaps for B12 to prevent anemia.

However, you might try him on frequent small and dry feedings as recommended by dieticians of the Veteran's Administration in Houston, Tex.

The recommended diet is high in proteins and fats and low in carbohydrates. More specifically, start him on feedings of only an ounce, every waking hour or so and whenever he awakens during the night. At first, offer only lean meat, crisp bacon, hard boiled eggs and margarine or butter. If these are tolerated, increase the amounts to 4 or 5 ounces and lengthen the time between feedings to 1½ or 2 hours.

If all goes well, add pureed vegetables, cream cheese, thick porridge, macaroni, toast and heavy whipping cream. Still later, try buttermilk between feedings and increasing amounts of very ripe bananas. In the Houston experience four-fifths of the patients responded favorably.

Elkton

Twenty members and guests attended a meeting of the WSCS of the Elkton Methodist Church Wednesday evening. Group singing was led by Mrs. Ruth Baker, Sr.

The group will meet July 18th, with Mrs. Blanche Hillberry, Mrs. Edith Milhoan and Mrs. Pauline Moore on the lunch committee and Mrs. Ethel Pollock committee.

Mrs. Sid Scorggs of the Lisbon-Elkton Rd. was hostess to the Jolly Eight card club Wednesday. Five hundred prizes were awarded to Mrs. Ethel Struthoff, Mrs. Thelma Ward and Mrs. Bee Moore.

Members will be entertained by Mrs. Struthoff July 10 at her home on the Lisbon-Salem Rd.

PAYING GOD'S RENT

Two centuries ago a glassmaker in Pennsylvania provided the land for the erection of a church. But he attached a string to his gift. Each year the congregation must pay to him, or to his descendants, one red rose, forever.

Annually in a traditional service the members of that church fulfil the terms of their deed. In the words of a reverent visitor, "God's rent is paid in coin more worthy than man's."

What strange thrust of imagination devised such a price. Certainly it was more than a man's love of roses . . .

Wisely he realized our tendency to take for granted our blessings. Fer- vently he prayed that we would forever treasure the privilege of worship. Gently he reminds us that there is beauty and happiness in every sacrifice for the support of God's House.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Adulteration is an old technique for padding profits. To adulterate is to dilute or debase a commodity and sell it as the real thing. In Roman times a typical adulterant was "white earth" added to bread. Here are some modern versions: grape juice preparations that never saw a grape, milk with water added, and horseradish containing ground parsnips.

What Did McNamara Mean?

New York Times Reporter James Reston says his fellow newsmen missed the most significant point in Defense Secretary McNamara's commencement address at the University of Michigan: a proposal to the Soviet Union that the world's two great nuclear powers get together on an agreement to limit the use of atomic weapons to military targets if they find themselves involved in a nuclear war.

We must confess we missed that interpretation of the secretary's address. We also must confess that, if the defense chief in fact intended to make such a proposal, it strikes us as discouragingly unrealistic.

FIRST, there is a fundamental question as to the reliability of that kind of agreement. If cold war events reach such a state that the world is thrust into a hot war nobody wants, could the enemy be depended upon to restrain his desire to do the most possible damage in the shortest possible time, even if that required the bombing of civilian populations?

Second, our stockpile of nuclear weapons is designed primarily as a deterrent force. If the enemy knows his own cities will be destroyed even if he launches a successful first attack, what more could be accomplished for the protection of civilian populations through an advance formal agreement?

Third as Mr. Reston himself points out, the Russians have concentrated their nuclear weapons development on the big bombs designed to wipe out whole cities or regions. If only the United States has the refined nuclear capability of fighting a limited or selective atomic war, what chance is there the Kremlin would even discuss a formal agreement that would have the effect of immobilizing its nuclear arsenal?

FOURTH, it is doubtful such a proposal can be made, even veiled in a commencement address, without creating the impression the United States has accepted the inevitability of a nuclear war. How do you approach a man to negotiate the ground rules for a life-and-death struggle and avoid making him think you are about to start a fight?

Interpreting Mr. McNamara's Michigan speech as a public explanation of U.S. opposition to France's development of an independent nuclear arsenal, we said the other day we thought he was right.

If the main point of his speech was to make the proposal Mr. Reston says he did, we think Mr. McNamara was wrong.

Political Confusion All Over

The outcome of the Canadian elections coincided with advance predictions: Incumbent Conservatives lost a lot of seats in Parliament but not enough to dismount them from the driver's seat. One of two minor groups, the Social Credit party, made enough gains it probably will have to be counted in on a coalition government.

Despite the strenuous campaigns conducted by the major party leaders and the advance publicity afforded it by both the Canadian and U.S. press, the election in retrospect seems a pretty lackluster affair. Canadian voters appear confused and the parallels between their politics and the politics on this side of the border are striking.

THE LIBERAL "outs" charged the country had suffered economic setbacks at home and loss of prestige abroad. The Conservative "ins" claimed they were responsible for great advancements in the last five years and promised good things for the future.

The central issues of the campaign revolved on the state of the economy and government fiscal policies. The outs said the ins had, in effect, confessed failure; the ins said the opposite was true.

A Montreal newspaper summed up the debate by declaring the two major parties espoused common goals but emphasized slightly different methods of approach: The Liberals would move moderately to the left and the Conservatives would move moderately to the right.

In the face of this undramatic, virtually invisible distinction, the voters were largely apathetic about the whole thing, seeing little opportunity to make a choice that would bring much change to their situation. The strength of the showing by the minor parties is a manifestation of this protest against frustration.

THE CONSERVATIVES, with sails severely trimmed, are expected to steer a non-controversial course over the choppy waters for the next year or so and then "go to the country" for a stronger vote of confidence in their policies.

The procedure for accomplishing this differs from the political system used in the United States, but President Kennedy hopes to accomplish the same thing in the congressional elections this fall. Although his party holds a nominal majority on Capitol Hill, he needs more aggressive support for his proposals among its members if he is to succeed in accomplishing what he says he wants.

He has one advantage over the Canadian prime minister: He doesn't have to risk his own job in "going to the country" for stronger congressional backing.

Whether U.S. voters have any clearer concept of their political direction than the Canadians did is perhaps the primary issue in our own November elections.

President Kennedy Sets a Record

Although John F. Kennedy probably will go down in history as the chief executive who tossed more demands for legislation at Congress than any other president, this session to date has been the least productive of results of any session in years.

So far in his term in the presidency, Mr. Kennedy has asked, in messages and other communications, for 551 specific pieces of legislation, according to a compilation made by the legislative service of the Library of Congress.

To date, only the job retraining program, of the top priority bills, has been signed into law. Three bills of secondary importance have been passed: tighter regulation of employee pension and welfare funds, aid for educational TV and expansion of the Peace Corps. Killed outright for this year are the bills to create a department for urban affairs and the ban on literary tests for voters.

In his first 100 days in office in 1933, President Franklin D. Roosevelt, in what was considered then a legislative "blizzard," asked for 62 specific pieces of legislation. By way of comparison, Mr. Kennedy made 231 specific requests in his first 100 days in office. But whereas Mr. Roosevelt got most of what he asked for, Mr. Kennedy hasn't been doing so well.

Among his "urgent" bills that now are bogged down are health care for the aged and tax reforms. These and other main parts of the Kennedy program face uncertain going with some still likely to pass but most facing radical modification or rejection.

As Congress swings into the home stretch, it is reported that the word from the White House is to salvage whatever possible from the wreckage.

Legion's Last Stand By Richard Spong

Soldats de la Legion,
De la Legion Etrangere,
N'ayant de nation,
La France est votre Mere.

War song of the Foreign Legion

The French Foreign Legion by the terms of its own charter may not be based in France proper. More than a year ago the Algerian rebels warned that the Legion would be asked to leave once independence was achieved. So the army of mercenaries faces a kind of dispersal among France's few remaining colonial possessions.

Legion headquarters will be moved from Sidi-bel-Abbes to a camp near Marseilles. Units will be sent to Corsica, to the Sahara to protect French oil holdings, to French Guiana, and to French Somalia, Madagascar, a former French colony, has asked for troops; it will get a battalion of the Third Infantry.

THE FRENCH Foreign Legion considers itself a "great family." Some of France's greatest generals have served in the Legion. Often the highest and most distinguished officers of the legion began their careers in its ranks.

The mercenaries' informal historian, P. C. Wren, whose "Beau Geste" and other best-selling novels made the legion a legend, wrote of it: "It is a real military school and offers the good soldier great and frequent chances of distinction, glory, decoration, and promotion."

Any man wanting to enlist merely goes to the nearest police station in France. He is then sent to a legion office in Paris or Marseilles and is given a tough physical examination.

He receives a 105 franc ($21) bonus for enlistment and another 520 francs if he passes an examination. Base pay runs from 70 francs ($14) a month for a simple soldier to $190 for a sergeant chief.

The legion asks few questions of its volunteers and does little to check the answers. Many enlist under false names. After five years of service a recruit may reenlist and again at the end of 10 years.

At the end of 15 years he is eligible for a pension varying according to his rank. The legion helps its veterans find a place in life when they leave with a good record.

IN RETURN for anonymity and a haven, the legion demands absolute loyalty and total discipline. The life is hard and the temptations are many, not the least of which is the threat of le cafard, or desert madness.

Of late there has been a lull in recruiting, partly the result of complaints from other European nations that the legion was recruiting minors—under 18 years of age—but more importantly because of the legion's role in the generals' putsch in Algeria in April 1961.

The 25,000 legionnaires in Algeria—14,000 of them Germans—formed the generals' basic military force. The First Parachute Regiment, which had been formed in 1949 and had fought gallantly at Dien Bien Phu, shouted defiantly "Algerie Francaise" while being driven to their dissolution.

And legionnaire deserters have formed the hard core of Secret Army (OAS) insurgents. German legionnaires directed sabotage by Algerian Jews.

For more than 130 years—the Legion was established in 1831 by Louis Philippe, France's citizen king—Algeria has been the legion's home and France its Mother. And wrong-headed and villainous as the OAS has been, the legionnaires in it were stubbornly maintaining their dual loyalty as they saw it

'Can't We Get a Little Closer?'

Make-Believe Words

By RAYMOND MOLEY

When Mr. Kennedy asked Congress to lend $100 million to the United Nations, he said that its purpose would make the U.N. "solvent." Since I've never heard that solvency could be achieved by borrowing more money, I was prepared for the great exercise in semantic make-believe unfolded in the Yale speech. For this attempt to change the meaning of words to the advantage of the party in power is not new. All that is news is the prestidigitator.

In 1939, when Mr. Kennedy was 22 years of age, Washington was witnessing a big investigation of national economic policies by the Temporary National Economic Committee. Its major figures were liberals whose purpose was to divert our economic life of what they then, like the President now, considered to be the "cliches of our forebears."

THERE WAS prepared for their confidential use a memorandum on semantics by Stuart Chase. Arthur Krock secured a copy of the document, "Standardizing Terminology, or First Aid to the Layman," and commented upon it in the New York Times. I secured a copy and in an article in the Saturday Evening Post under date of April 6, 1940, noted that its purpose was to supply a number of plausible definitions for old, unpleasant economic facts.

Basically, its purpose was to get people to believe that "spending" was "investment" and that "thrift" meant "economic stagnation." The following are some excerpts:

The memorandum boldly began with the statement: "Savings" is a 'good' word, tenderly regarded on the folkways." It explained that "if 'savings' are not invested, they become 'hoardings,' or idle money." "Debt" is likewise "a very 'bad' word on the folkways."

Yet, Mr. Chase said, it is "important to keep 'debt' and 'investment' closely associated." Otherwise you are going to get stump speeches on the horror of government debt and the sublimities of private investment . . .

And now, warming to his subject, Mr. Chase announced: "Spending" is a 'bad' word. Avoid it like a copperhead. Talk about 'government running expenses' and 'government plant' . . .

"In connection with 'spending,' 'economy' will be talked about . . . 'Economy' is a beautiful word. Visions of Uncle Abner, rolling balls of waste string. Economy, however, means a 'loss' to somebody else — loss of 'sales' or 'wages.'"

"Keep 'economy' and 'loss' firmly associated . . . And so Mr. Chase suggested that it 'might be better to use two relatives: 'A rapidly expanding economy' and 'a slowly expanding economy.'"

Now we find in the Yale speech an almost exact restatement of what was current in the liberalism of the 1930s.

THESE ATTEMPTS to change definitions are now revived. They are, according to the Hale declaration, "old records, long playing, left over from the middle 30s." But these new 1962 records sing the same song, only in a quite different setting. It is the President who is guilty of "cliches." It is he who is reviving a myth.

To show how closely Mr. Kennedy is following the T.N.E.C. line, consider this Yale paragraph:

"The administrative budget," (which is a simple statement of income and outgo in dollars) "omits our special trust funds and the effect they have on our economy. It neglects changes in assets and inventories . . . And worst of all it cannot distinguish between operating expenditures and long-term investments."

The point he makes here is also a revival of an idea urged upon President Roosevelt by some of the predecessors of the Kennedy advisers. They told him that the way to balance the budget would be to put on the plus side as "assets" the estimated value of things which the government had built, such as highways, dams, parks, etc. Even the Washington Monument and the Lincoln Memorial might be used to "balance the budget under this plan."

Roosevelt privately accepted this and made some comments about it in public. But wiser heads in the administration, including his budget director, dissuaded him from actually reconstructing his budget on this play. He also toyed with the "five-year" or "cyclical" budget which seems already well on the way to adoption in 1962.

IT SHOULD be added that President Kennedy's suggestions that the trust funds should be used in calculating the budget is the most absurd of all these suggestions. For the trust funds are not like money in the bank. They are federal IOUs which must be redeemed when needed out of current tax collections. They are not assets. They are liabilities, no matter how you change the words.

And now we have Walter Lippmann resurrecting another cliché of the 1930s, the term "refloating our economy," which then was designed to make deficits more palatable.

Roger Blough, who listened to the Yale speech, might have learned from this eloquent exercise in make - believe how he could have avoided his trouble with the President. Under this new government philosophy he could have kept the price of a ton of steel where it was, but could have delivered only 1,800 pounds.

Matter of Fact

The Chinese are said to have invented eyeglasses long before they came into use in Europe. According to legend, they were used as early as 500 B.C. and Marco Polo reported their use in China about A.D. 1275.

Cancer Note

By EARL UBELL

Prenatal X-Rays Are Dangerous

Sixteen months ago, three British scientists reported on babies, x-rays and cancer. They reassured mothers, in the face of other scientific evidence to the contrary, that the connection between X-rays and cancer in children had not been established.

They surveyed 40,000 children whose mothers had been X-rayed while the children were still in the womb. They found nine who died of leukemia, just about one fewer than expected from the general population of children.

Yet more than one experiment had shown how the rays can enter the body, attack bone marrow and turn well-behaved cells into the rampaging, growing blood cells of leukemia; it had been demonstrated in animals; it had been found among the survivors of the Hiroshima atomic bomb who were doused with the radiation.

FURTHER, Dr. Alice Stewart and her associates in Wales and England found the risk of leukemia was twice as great among the X-rayed children as among those un-X-rayed.

For obstetricians, the point was essential because it is they who spray X-rays against the pelvis of an expectant mother to determine if the opening is wide enough to let the baby through. If it is too narrow they must operate to save the infant.

The point has now been settled. Dr. Brian MacMahon, professor of epidemiology at the Harvard School of Public Health, has done the definitive study.

He surveyed 37 large maternity hospitals; tracked down the children who died of cancer (leukemia included); checked the hospital records for their X-ray record; compared them to other children chosen at random.

The result: the cancer rate was 40 per cent higher in the X-rayed children than in the un-X-rayed.

THE CANCERS occurred at varying ages after birth, but the greatest occurrence was between ages of six to eight. After 8 years old, there seemed to be little or no effect of the prenatal X-ray.

Although there were more leukemia victims, than sufferers of other cancers, the X-rays seemed to increase the risk to the same extent, namely, 40 per cent.

The figures derived by Dr. MacMahon were lower than those obtained by Dr. Stewart. You could account for this by the fact that Dr. Stewart obtained information about whether or not the mother was X-rayed from the mother rather than from the hospital records. A mother whose child died of cancer is more likely to "remember" having had the X-rays and this would make the risk seem higher. (It turns out that many such mothers remember having had the treatment when the hospital records show otherwise.)

"I DO NOT think these findings have much practical application in pelvimetry now," Dr. MacMahon said in commenting on his findings published in the Journal of The National Cancer Institute, "the doctors will continue to do this to save lives of infants because the risk of leukemia is so very small anyway."

"However, the pictures are not taken any more during the early part of pregnancy when the embryo is apparently most sensitive. Furthermore they have cut down the dose to the unborn child from 5 roentgens down to less than 1 roentgen; at least in the larger hospitals."

Dr. MacMahon's findings have importance in a wider theoretical sense. They show that every small doses of the rays can have a cancer causing effect. The estimate 5 roentgens is the lowest dose so far shown to be able to produce cancer.

"In fact, this 5 roentgen dose—and it is only an estimate—causes more cancer than we would expect," Dr. MacMahon said.

This finding then is pertinent to the argument over the human effects of radioactive fallout from atom bomb tests which also produce low doses of X-rays, doses far lower than 5 roentgens however. The result indicates that even very low doses can cause cancer and the amount of cancer it causes is greater in proportion than that caused by high doses.

This could mean that there is no cut-off, no threshold. It could mean that any dose, no matter how small could cause cancer in somebody somewhere. But it is only an indication and not proved. As such, it must give everybody who adds any radioactivity to the human species some pause.

Grass In Wall Street

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—A remarkable number of husbands have noticed how much easier it has been to get along with their wives lately.

I have noticed this too, and I think I've solved the mystery. "My home life has been like a second honeymoon the last few weeks," a friend observed the other day. "My wife can't seem to do enough to please me."

"Every morning she asks me what I'd like to have special for dinner. If I don't want to go out in the evening, she says it's okay with her—that maybe it would be better if we both stayed home and rested."

"She's getting awfully thrifty, too. Hasn't bought herself anything new to wear in a month or more."

"I tell you a wife like that is a real consolation—particularly at a time like this when the bottom seems to be dropping out of the stock market about every third day."

My ears went up at that. A light began to dawn in my mind.

"By any chance," I asked my friend, "does your wife happen to be playing the market herself?"

"Oh, she's in it in a small way, I guess," he replied. "Most of the wives in her circle are. They get a kick out of it."

"How has she been doing lately?"

"Gee, I don't know," he said. "I've been too busy with my own worries to ask her."

Well, I couldn't wait to get home. My own wife has been toying—if that's the right word—with the stock market for several seasons. One year she made $400, not counting her losses.

"It's much better than a slot machine," she once said. "You pick a good stock, wait until it goes up, then sell it. It's as easy as that."

That evening as I entered our apartment I told Frances, "I see the stock market went down again today."

She didn't seem to hear me. "We're having your favorite kind of steak tonight," she said. "A friend of mine told me his wife lost $150 on International Albumen, Unlimited," I lied. "Isn't that one of the stocks you were strong on?"

"Dear, you look like you've had a rough day. Here, lie down on the sofa. Let me help you off with your shoes. I'll go get your slippers, and—"

And she fled. Well, stretched out on the sofa, I decided to drop the matter right there. No wife likes to admit to her husband she can't figure out a simple little old thing like a stock market.

After all, money is only money, and a sensible husband would almost be willing to see grass grow in Wall Street—if it made his nice wife nicer and his good home life better.

A History of Salem:

Victory For Abolitionists

By CARL F. PRUTTON, JR.
Chapter 4

(The Civil War and Victory for the Salem Abolitionists)

During the 1850's, Salem's branch of the 'Underground Railroad' operated efficiently and quietly.

After the Fugitive Slave Law of 1850 was passed, the strong anti-slavery element in Salem refused to vote because they felt that voting was an act which gave tacit agreement to the Constitution which they viewed as an instrument of slavery.

Howell Hise was asked to vote in the presidential election of 1856, but he declined saying that he had, "conscientious scruples about swearing to support a constitution that is pro-slavery."

In 1857, the Dred Scott Case's decision was passed by the Supreme Court. According to the decision, the Missouri Compromise of 1820 was void and therefore the stipulations in the compromise barring slavery in the northern part of the old Louisiana Purchase Territory were likewise void.

The Bugle said that the decision was a "stride in despotism, outstripping all former efforts of the Government in the extension of slavery."

Barbara Munsell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester C. Martig of the Benton Road, became the bride of William Petty Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Petty of Randolph, Sunday.

Rev. Daniel L. Keister officiated at the 2 p.m. double ring ceremony in the home of the bride's parents.

Wearing a snirmp pink silk organza over tulle dress complemented with a corsage of white carnations, the bride was attended by her sister, Betty Vernon. Merritt Baker of Atwater served as best man.

A reception on the lawn of the residence followed the ceremony with a four-tier wedding cake centering the bride's table which was decorated with bouquets of carnations and roses. Mary Mikesell of New Springfield, Mrs. Lorene Scullion of North Benton, Mrs. Gloria Baker of Atwater and Miss Anna May Eyster of Salem served. Seventy guests greeted the bridal pair and were registered by Mrs. Nina Whistler of Greenora.

Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Know those plastic tablecloths we use on our kitchen tables? Well . . . next time you are in town buy one and make a curtain for your bathroom out of it.

These curtains are darling. The ruffles do not have to be hemmed and the plastic is real easy to sew on. They may be removed from the window and rinsed in the bathtub, then put right back on the window.

I also made cottage curtains for my kitchen out of one pink plastic tablecloth. I bought a design that looked lacy and people have no idea it's a tablecloth.

SANDRA YAP

DEAR HELOISE:

Lacquer thinner or solvent will remove the residue left from masking tape on windows.

When the smudge has softened, scrape most of the residue off and then use a rag dipped in the above and rub the remains of the masking tape. I use rubber gloves when doing this.

ALEX BOROS

DEAR HELOISE:

I peel onions under water and thereby avoid tears.

I wonder if anyone knows how to clean hammered aluminum pots and pans? I have tried nearly everything but nothing seems to do any good. Mine looks awful.

When washing sweaters, fold them in half and lay them on top of your washer or dryer or some porcelain household appliance to dry.

When dry, they are beautifully pressed. I always put my heavier sweaters on top of the dryer and they benefit because of the warmth, which hastens the drying process.

MRS. JAMES HARRIS

Anyone know how to clean aluminum pots and pans? Write to Heloise, in care of The Salem News.

DEAR HELOISE:

Here's a quickie for those who travel and are in a hurry. Saves time and nerves:

I use my bottle of red fingernail polish and put "dots" on each key that belongs to our suitcases. One dot on the key is for the smallest case, the makeup case. Two dots means that it is for the second largest case, three dots for the next size and so on. . .

You'd be surprised how cool, calm and collected one can be when it's time to open them for inspection, to say nothing of the time saved fumbling around trying to find the right key for your own use.

In the United States last year enough shirts were laundered by professional laundries to provide one for every human being on earth—2,852,000,000 of them.

Presbyterian Women Hear Talk By Timothy Maina

Timothy Maina, a student at Crestview High School from Kenya, Africa, spoke to members of the Presbyterian Women's Association Wednesday evening in Fellowship hall.

Timothy, who is studying here as the result of an African-American Scholarship Foundation award, was introduced by Mrs. Jesse Pottorf, whose theme was "Life In Christ." She showed a madonna picture painted by an African artist.

After Mrs. Philip Stevens opened the meeting, devotions were given by Mrs. Robert Dunn, whose topic was "Place of Peace."

Timothy Maina is ninth in a family of ten. His father, a Presbyterian minister, was killed during an uprising of the Mau-Maus. One of his brothers is in college in Uganda, one is a political leader, one is a teacher; and another is a musician. His four sisters are married.

In Kenya there are about 20 different tribes with 20 dialects, but the common language they all can use is Swahili, he said. Their government officials use Swahili, and most of these officials are British.

The schools there were started by missions of various churches, Christian and Moslem, but now the government has charge of them. Mostly, only the lower grades are taught, and each student must pay $20 for each year and buy their books and uniforms. Discipline is strict.

Their seasons are two: one rainy, one dry, but they raise two crops a year. Their cash crops are coffee, tea, and pyrethrum. Some areas have 80 inches of rain while some have only 25, and the average temperature is 68 degrees.

The meeting was closed by prayer by Mrs. Milton Steiner after the medical mission offering was received. Mrs. Bruce Milligan explained that this summer it will be used to help Severance Hospital in Korea.

Stocks Skid To New Low

New Setback Caps Week of Decline

NEW YORK (AP)—Hit by five consecutive losing sessions, the stock market languished today at its lowest level in nearly four years.

A sharp setback Friday capped a week of decline. An expected rally failed to materialize and the popular market averages sank through the year's low point reached May 29 at the bottom of the worst sell-off since 1929.

Brokers seeking reasons for the continued drop speculated that investors continued to be plagued by the emotional factors which triggered the big plunge May 28. Among these, they said, was anxiety over the business outlook.

Talk about the possibilities of a recession next year was also said to have put more dark emphasis on the business picture.

Discouraging business items of a more immediate nature were Phelps Dodge Corp.'s statement that it may have to reduce copper production, a drop in retail sales below the year-ago level for the first time in three months and a steep fall in automobile production because of a strike at a Ford Motor Co. stamping plant.

The Associated Press 60-stock average Friday skidded 3.40 to 202.50, lowest since Nov. 26, 1958. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 11.30 to 539.19, lowest since Oct. 28, 1958.

The scope of the decline in recent months is shown by comparison with the AP average's all-time high of 262.50 on Feb. 15 and the Dow Jones industrials' peak of 734.91 Dec. 13, 1961.

Blue chips among the industrials—stock considered the soundest investments—suffered in the week's final session. Sharp losses were taken by many steel, chemical, drug, airline, aerospace, rubber and mail order issues.

Some growth stocks, previously hard hit, weathered the storm and posted gains for the day.

OUTBOARD ASTRONAUT—A compact space pack has been designed which almost converts an astronaut in a pressure suit into a one-man spaceship. W. J. North, pilot for Ling-Temco-Vought, wears a mock-up of the pack, left. The pack would operate with hydrogen peroxide jets and is designed to position and stabilize a crewman or astronaut during operations outside a spaceship. It would permit him to transfer from one vehicle to another and to act as a human tug for moving large sections of spacecraft being constructed in orbit. The pack is shown, right, with its cover off. Upper section contains four-hour life support system (oxygen, etc.). Jets and fuel supply are in the bottom half.

Akron Slayer Of Policeman Dies In Chair

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A stocky young slayer whose life was marked by violence went to his death quietly Friday night—the 313th person to die in Ohio's electric chair.

James Rodney Buck, 24, convicted in the 1960 fatal shooting of an Akron policeman, spoke in a clear voice as he repeated the 23rd Psalm and Lord's Prayer after Ohio Penitentiary minister, the Rev. Clarence Swearingen.

Only after he had been strapped into the chair did Buck falter in repeating the phrases, but quickly said, "I'm sorry, Reverend, I didn't hear you." Buck never was able to repeat the phrase. He was pronounced dead at 8:11 p.m. EST.

Buck was convicted of first-degree murder in the March 25, 1960, slaying of policeman Floyd A. Weatherholt. Authorities said Buck was attempting to burglarize an Akron camera store when he was surprised by Weatherholt. In the brief gun battle Buck was wounded in the arm and chest.

He entered the penitentiary Oct. 13, 1960, and had four stays of executions. His last hope, Gov. Michael V. DiSalle, said Friday, "After a careful evaluation of all the facts before me, I can find no supportable reason for staying the execution."

Buck's mother, wife and 5-year-old son visited him twice Friday. Associate Warden Marion J. Koloski said Buck first refused his final meal of steak with all the trimmings, asking instead for a soft drink. He finally ate the dinner, however.

Election Costs Reports Filed

The final candidate and three committees submitted expense statements required by state law prior to the deadline Friday afternoon, the County Election Board at East Liverpool said today.

The last candidate to file was Samuel B. Webber of East Liverpool, who reported he spent $117.41 in his unsuccessful bid for the Republican nomination for county commissioner at the May primary.

The Columbiana County Republican Central Committee said it received contributions totaling $163.75 from party organizations in East Liverpool, Wellsville, Lisbon, East Palestine, Columbiana and Salem and spent $128.75.

The $35 balance was retained in the central committee's treasury, James Magill of Columbiana, treasurer, said in the report.

The committee for the park levy in Salem reported indirect receipts of $51 and indirect expenses of $48.30, with one bill for $2.70 still unpaid. The report was filed by Ben Barrett, chairman.

Wellsville City Council had no receipts or expenses in supporting renewal of a half-mill levy for floodwall maintenance. The report was submitted by Mrs. Margaret Baldwin, council clerk.

Corso, owner of Corso's Drive-In, was elected along with Joseph Trecaso of Akron, president; Sam Maggorie of Canton, treasurer.

Corso said the association has petitioned for an injunction to delay rise in beer prices is Regulation 70 is enforced by the Ohio Department of Liquor Control. The association says the increase, due July 2, is a violation of the fair trade laws.

Vopos Stop West German Subway Train

BERLIN (AP) — East German police stopped a West Berlin subway train twice during the night, searched it at length and arrested a man, West police reported today.

The train ran on one of two lines crossing East Berlin. Since Aug. 13, when the Communists closed the border in Berlin, subway trains which formerly connected the two halves of the country have not been allowed to stop in East Berlin.

West police said it was the first time since the Reds closed the border that a subway train was halted and searched.

The train connects the district of Neukoelln in the American sector with the borough of Wedding in the French sector.

The train was first stopped shortly before midnight by a group of East German police—at Alexanderplatz station.

After a half-hour search, the Communists let the train continue its run. The train was stopped again 10 minutes later, shortly before reaching Bernauer Strasse station, still in East Berlin.

A platoon of Red police again searched the train. An unidentified man was taken off the train. Apparently he had no identification papers.

Police said the search appeared to have been aimed at finding somebody the Communists want badly.

Portage authorities to turn the trio over to Columbiana County for trial on the auto theft charges.

Meanwhile, VanFossan said he will file a concealed weapons charge against Norman Lavefer, 25, a brother of L. D. Lavefer, who was arrested by Salem police Friday morning after an alert broadcast by Columbiana County deputies. The sheriff said he was carrying a blank pistol when apprehended.

The deputies had stopped the younger Lavefer near Glenmoor about 3 a.m. Friday but released him after finding his registration in order. Shortly afterward they discovered the Boyd Lumber Co. in Glenmoor had been broken into and they put out an alert for Lavefer who was stopped at 4 a.m. in Salem.

The intruders hammered into the lumber company safe and escaped with $125, deputies said.

The car abandoned by the trio arrested in Portage County belongs to Elizabeth Beatty of East Liverpool.

Was Well-Armed
Portage deputies said the older Lavefer was carrying a loaded pistol and six knives when taken into custody.

A burglary at the Smith Feed Co. on Rt. 30, just south of its junction with Rt. 7, also committed Friday night, netted the thieves a paint sprayer and about three dollars in coins from a beverage machine. Deputies theorize both burglaries were the work of the same thieves.

"I have always thought," Scott said, "that any agency of government could take at least a 10 per cent cut in its budget. Perhaps the Defense Department would provide a tighter operation if it were cut by 10 per cent."

Line Up For Autographs

Eisenhower and his wife, Mamie, had an autograph-signing good time. Republicans of all shades of opinion lined up to get the signatures that were still regarded as valuable in GOP ranks.

When the amenities were over, the former president tore into Kennedy's administration on almost every domestic issue.

Eisenhower said among other things that "our national economy has become uncertain, fearful, ill at ease."

He said it was obvious that the Kennedy administration "was floundering, thrashing aimlessly and a bit desperately about—in the surging financial, fiscal and economic currents of our time."

He yelled at the men and chased them into the A & P store parking lot where they got away. On the way back to his car he said he heard a loud crash and found that his car had coasted down the street into Capps' auto.

Rusk, Segni Air NATO Problems

ROME AP — Secretary of State Dean Rusk had his first meeting with Italy's new president today and reviewed NATO and Common Market problems.

Rusk, who came to Rome from Bonn on the third leg of his 10-day European tour, conferred with President Antonio Segni at the presidential palace within hours after his arrival. Premier Amintore Fanfani and Foreign Minister Attilio Piccioni joined Segni for the talks.

Rusk headed for Italy after apparently reaching agreement with Chancellor Konrad Adenauer to leave the next move on the Berlin issue up to the Russians.

No real problems loom in Italian-American relations such as differences over Berlin which appear to have been ironed out in Friday's five-hour Rusk-Adenauer meeting.

Authoritative diplomatic sources said the United States has decided to make no further proposals to Russia on Berlin until the Soviets stop demanding that Western troops withdraw from the divided city.

This does not mean Washington will discontinue exploratory talks with Russia, these sources said. However, it will be up to the Russians to make the next move, one of the informants added.

Local Mining Firm Faces U.S. Charges

The Ker-Mac Mining Corporation of Route 45 near Salem, and Richard McCulley and Velma McCulley of Youngstown, both officials of the corporation, were charged Friday in an injunction suit in Cleveland's U.S. District Court with violations of the Federal Wage-Hour Law.

The complaint was filed by Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, through Solicitor of Labor Charles Donahue.

The complaint charges that the defendants failed to pay many employees the required time and one-half for hours worked in excess of 40 per workweek for the period since July 15, 1961. They are also charged with (1) failure to maintain adequate and accurate records of hours worked and wages paid employees, and with (2) shipping in interstate commerce goods in the production of which many employees worked in violation of the law.

It is estimated that about $2,950 in back wages are due 9 employees because of the alleged violations of the law.

Crash

he was having difficulty getting the landing gear down. The plane then swept out over the sea.

Minutes later, the control tower radar lost contact at about the same time explosions in the distance were noted. The explosions were taken by some as lightning crackling in the storm.

But after daylight searchers spotted the wreckage on Mule's Back Hill 18 miles from the field, and one witness reported: "Nothing left...a horrible sight."

The plane slammed into the hill about 500 feet below its 2,000-foot crest, off the usual landing approach pattern. The pilot of another Air France liner here blamed the crash on the thunderstorm, saying "the ceiling was very low."

The fiery crash scattered wreckage over more than a mile of the thick undergrowth. Bodies hung from trees. A small girl, one of 11 youngsters killed in the crash, still clutched her doll in death.

Air France officials revised the casualty list several times Friday, finally placing the dead at 102 passengers and 10 crew members. No Americans were reported aboard.

This toll in a single-plane crash was exceeded only by the crash of another Air France Boeing 707 jet early this month which killed 130 persons, including 121 Americans on a European tour sponsored by the Atlanta Art Association.

The big Boeing jetliners have been involved in five commercial airline crashes killing a total of 303 persons in the past 17 months. The London Daily Sketch urged today that the Boeing jets be grounded "until an acceptable explanation is found" for the crashes. But the Federal Aviation Agency said in Washington Friday night that it has no present plans to order them grounded.

"We have no evidence at this time on which to ground them," an FAA spokesman said. "If any evidence turns up we will ground them."

The downed plane was piloted by Capt. Andre Lesieur, one of Air France's most experienced pilots who had flown jets for President Charles de Gaulle on several occasions.

Detroit Hands New York 6th Defeat In 7 Games 7-5

Minnesota Takes Pair From L. A.

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The New York Yankees, their pitching in woeful shape, could have used their castoff, Robin Roberts, Friday night as they went down to their sixth loss in seven games, 7-5, to the Detroit Tigers. Even the return of a hobbling Mickey Mantle didn't help. Mantle got a walk, a line single, struck out and grounded out as he tested his injured knee for 6½ innings.

Roberts was busy winning his third straight for the Baltimore Orioles, a complete 4-3 job over the Boston Red Sox in the second game of a two-night doubleheader. Hobbie Landrith was equally occupied. He struck the two-run homer in the bottom of the ninth that won the game.

The Red Sox won the first, 2-1 in 10 innings.

Dick Donovan defeated his old Washington mates, 6-2, to run his record to 11-2 on the year, tops in the league.

Minnesota closed to within 1½ games of the league leading Indians with a double win over the third-place Los Angeles Angels, who had slipped ahead of them briefly. Camilo Pascual won the second game, 8-3, after a two-run, throwing error gave the Twins the opener, 3-2. The Chicago White Sox slapped a 5-1 defeat on the Kansas City Athletics.

Hank Aguirre (5-2), with ninth inning help from Ron Nischwitz, got the Tigers off to a good start in the five-game set with the Yankees. Aguirre also got his first hit in almost two years in the sixth inning to drive in the run turned out to be the winner.

In the second Baltimore-Boston game, Oriole John Powell hit a massive homer that was the first ball ever to clear the center field hedge in Memorial Stadium on the fly. It ticked off 469 feet on the tape measure, and tied the score at 2-2.

Donovan tantalized the Senators with 11 hits, including four to center fielder Jimmy Piersall, who was the Senators' payoff in the trade for the big pitcher. But he went all the way for his eighth complete game.

Pascual, who ran his record to 10-4, hit a home run and a double against the Angels. He also struck out 10, and didn't walk a man.

Don Lee (5-4) led the Twins to three hits in the opener, but a throwing error by catcher Bob Rodgers on a pickoff attempt let two runs home to ruin the Angels. Bob Sadowski's three-run pinch homer in the eighth inning was the big blow for the White Sox.

Odom's Moves Into 1st Place

Dumps Lisbon Hotel 6-5 In Class A Tilt

Odom's Sohio took over first place in the Class A bracket of edging second-place Lisbon Hotel 6-5 in the night-cap of a three-game card last night at Kelley Field.

In other action Shaffer Ford dumped Bliss 6-3 and the Italian Club knocked off Salem Democrats 11-9.

Odom's scored once in the first, and twice in the second before the county-seaters exploded with five in the third.

Odom's knotted the game at 5-5 in the sixth and then shoved across the winning tally in the top of the seventh.

Juju Alex tripled and Dick Good and Ray Hertel each doubled to pace the winners hitting attack. John Eckstine had a three-bagger for the losers.

Bill Panzott hurled for the winners, giving up five hits and five walks while striking out three. Jerry Bryson was the loser.

The win gives Odom's a 9-2 record while the loss was the Lisbon aggregation's second in nine outings.

A homer and three triples sparked the Italian Club to victory over the Salem Democrats. John Chaffin smacked a homer in the fourth and then belted a triple in the seventh to pace the attack while John DeFavero and Don Casy each had three-baggers in the second.

John Moliva and George Corlist led the Democrats' losing cause. Moliva homered in the fourth and Corlist tripled.

Casey went the distance for the winners, giving up 11 hits, walking seven and striking out one. Laird Bowersock started for the losers but was relieved by Red Dotson in the second who yielded to Merf Sosbe in the sixth.

Bliss jumped to a 3-2 lead in the first inning but never scored again while Shaffer shoved across three runs in the fourth and another in the seventh to claim the victory.

Jerry Beiling had three singles in four trips to lead the winners at the plate. Teammate Eugene Stallsmith had the winners' only extra-base hit, a triple in the fourth, and Larry Stoffer doubled for the losers' only extra-base hit.

Eldon Morse received credit for the win as he gave up six scattered hits and two walks while striking out two. Bruce Riley was the losing pitcher.

BONUS BLOOM—With a blow-up of the new Flushing Stadium as a backdrop, Larry Bearnath whoops it up after signing with the New York Mets for $25,000. Pitching for St. John's, the 20-year-old, 6-3, 200-pound right-hander won 32 games while losing only two, the best collegiate record in the Greater New York area in recent seasons.

Tribe Unleashes 11-Hit Attack

Senators Tamed 6-2 By Donovan, Romano

CLEVELAND (AP) — Pitcher Dick Donovan and catcher John Romano have added new drive to Cleveland's pennant push.

Donovan (11-2) turned in his eighth complete game in 15 starts with a 6-2 triumph over the Washington Senators Friday night.

Romano finally snapped out of his slump—0 for 26—by slamming a pair of doubles. He knocked in two runs and scored twice in leading the Tribe's 11-hit attack.

Romano, his averaged down to .258, took extra batting practice before the game and it paid off.

Donovan, who yielded 11 hits, said he was exhausted at the finish. "I guess it was the heat and the humidity," he explained.

Donovan, who came to Cleveland in the trade for outfielder Jim Piersall, gave up four hits to Piersall and three to rookie Edie Brinkman. But second baseman Jerry Kindall, shortstop Woodie Held and centerfielder Ty Cline came up with sparkling plays to bail him out of difficulty.

The losing hurler was Bennie Daniels (1-9), who departed with none out in the fourth trailing 3-0. The Indians sewed it up with a three-run fifth off rookie Carl Bouldin.

Piersall was bubbling after his best hitting night of the season. "I feel at home in this ball park," he said. "That D. C. Stadium is a good one, but I'm not used to it yet."

Laver, Emerson Tangle In London Tennis Finals

LONDON (AP) — Rod Laver, who smashed America's Chuck McKinley in the semifinals in a replay of last year's Wimbledon finale, squared off against fellow Australian Roy Emerson today in the finals of the London Tennis Championships.

The results of the Laver-Emerson match could give a good line on Wimbledon, which opens Monday. Laver is top-seeded there and Emerson No. 2.

An all-British women's final pitted Mrs. Loran Cawthron and Rita Bentley. Mrs. Cawthron disposed of Carole Caldwell of Santa Monica, Calif., the last American girl, in the semifinals, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3. Miss Bentley defeated Britain's Wightman Cup star, Christine Truman, 6-4, 6-2.

In the women's doubles finals, Justina Bricka of St. Louis and Margaret Smith of Australia met Darlene Hard of Long Beach, Calif., and Maria Bueno of Brazil.

Bob Howe of Australia and Ramanathan Krishnan of India met Bob Hewitt and Fred Stolle of Australia in the men's doubles final.

Johnson 4-1 Favorite Over Challenger

BERLIN (AP) — Germany's Gustav "Bubi" Scholz challenges Harold Johnson for the American's world light heavyweight title at outdoor Olympic Stadium tonight.

The 15-round fight, first title match ever in Germany, is scheduled for 3 p.m. EST.

Some 50,000 fans are expected to pour into the giant stadium to watch the clash between the 33-year-old champ from Philadelphia and Scholz, a 32-year-old Berliner.

The odds favor Johnson. He's the 4-1 favorite.

A professional since 1946, Johnson's record shows 69 victories, 32 by knockouts in 76 fights. The champ has been knocked out four times in his early career. He is unbeaten since 1955.

Scholz boasts 92 professional fights. He's won 85, including 46 by knockouts, had six draws and lost only once. He's never been knocked out.

Both fighters were reported in top shape. Johnson's training weight was 176 pounds, Scholz was six pounds lighter.

Johnson will receive $50,000 for putting his title at stake for the fourth time. Scholz receives $25,000 and is bound by contract to fight Johnson in Philadelphia within 90 days should he win tonight.

U. S. Sets Shot Put Mark In National AAU Meet

WALNUT, Calif. (AP) — The National AAU track and field championships swing into the final round tonight after an evening that produced one American record with 28:34.8.

The two surprises were in the shot put and the 120-yard high hurdles.

Gary Gubner of New York on his final throw hit 63 feet 6½ inches in the shot to displace the champion, Dallas Long. Long's best was 63-1¼.

Gubner broke the meet record of 62-6¼ set by Parry O'Brien in 1960. Long has a pending world record of 65-10½.

In the hurdles, Jerry Tarr of the Oregon Emerald Empire Club caught veteran Hayes Jones in the late stages and won as both hit the tape in 13.4. It equaled the meet record set in 1956 by Jack Davis of the U.S. Navy.

The bad break came in the 100-yard dash. Robert Hayes of Florida A & M won in 9.3 but it was a hollow triumph over his chief rival, Frank Budd of Villanova. The latter held a lead of mere inches but abruptly dropped out of the race just beyond the 50-yard mark with a recurrence of a muscle injury in his right leg.

Jim Beatty and his teammate from the Los Angeles Track Club, Jim Grelle, and Cary Weisger of the Quantic Marines are the class in the mile.

Kidd, of the East York Club of Toronto, sprinted the final two laps of the grueling 6-mile for a time of 28:23.1. He bettered the American record of 28:35.8 set by Al Lawrence of Houston University in 1960.

Peter McArdle of the New York Athletic Club also bettered the

Purkey Troubled by Back Pain

Redlegs Halt Dodgers' Rally In 9th; Win 4-3

By CHARLES MAHER
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Bob Purkey, biggest mystery of the year to National League hitters, was mystified himself today—and a little concerned—about a stabbing pain in his back.

The Cincinnati right-hander scored his 13th victory Friday night as the Reds muddled through a three-run Los Angeles rally in the ninth inning and beat the first place Dodgers 4-3 before 48,260.

But the back pain became so severe it began to take Purkey's breath away and he had to leave the game after shutting out the Dodgers for seven innings and hitting a rally-starting double in the eighth.

"I felt this little catch in my back before the game," Purkey said, "but the trainer relieved it. Then, about the second or third inning, it started again."

"When I got to second base in the eighth, I couldn't breathe. It felt like someone was sticking a knife in my back—between the spine and the base of the right shoulder blade."

In the dressing room after the game, Purkey said the back was still sore. "I'll see how it feels tomorrow, and if it's still sore I'll see a doctor."

For seven innings, Friday night's game was a superb pitching match between Purkey and left-hander Sandy Koufax. Purkey had given up only four hits and Koufax had shut out the Reds on two hits.

Then, with one out in the eighth, Purkey doubled and took third on a single by Chico Cardenas. Cookie Rojas went in to run for Purkey and scored on an infield single by Don Zimmer. Koufax fielded Zimmer's ball and threw wildly to the plate, letting Cardenas in with the second run.

The Reds scored two more in

Hikes Base Count to 5,866

Musial Snaps Cobb's Mark

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
Stan (The Man) Musial, 41-year-old St. Louis Cardinal great, established another in his long list of records Friday night, lashing a home run and three singles to surpass Ty Cobb's major league record of 5,863 career total bases.

It was the fourth major career standard established by the personable outfielder this season. He previously topped the National League records held by the late Honus Wagner for hits (3,430) and games (2,785) and by Mel Ott for runs (1,859).

Musial's four hits in St. Louis split of a doubleheader with Philadelphia raised his batting average to .345, best in the league. His total base count now stands at 5,866. Babe Ruth is third on the all time list with 5,793.

Musial's second inning homer, his eighth of the season, triggered a six-run inning that brought the Cardinals a 7-3 victory in the opener, but the Phils came back for an 11-3 verdict in the nightcap.

In the others, New York and Houston split a pair, Met lefty Al Jackson throwing a one-hit 2-0 shutout in the opener and the Colts romping 16-3 in the second. Cincinnati fought off a Los Angeles ninth-inning rally and beat the Dodgers 4-3. The Dodgers remained 2½ games in front of San Francisco, however, which was hit victim of a ninth-inning Milwaukee rally that brought the Braves 11-9 decision. Pittsburgh beat Chicago 7-5.

The Mets' Jackson, a lefty, allowed only a single to Joe Amalfitano and a walk in the first inning before settling down to his near-perfect performance. He retired 22 in order before walking the lead-off man in the ninth. Jackson (4-8) struck out nine in the first complete game one-hitter of the season.

Jim Golden (5-4) tossed a seven hit, contributed two triples and got the benefit of a 17-hit attack in leading the Colts second game rout.

Cincinnati's Bob Purkey (13-1) shut out Los Angeles on four hits before he had to leave the game with a muscle spasm in his back in the eighth. The Dodgers promptly hopped on three relief men for a three-run rally in the ninth, but Ted Willis finally saved it for the Reds.

Milwaukee rallied for three runs in the ninth, the last two on Lee Maye's single, to outlast the Giants in a see-saw battle that lasted four hours and two minutes.

Dick Groat drove in two runs with a single and double and scored two more as the Pirates overcame a 4-3 deficit against the Cubs. Bob Skinner had a two-run homer for the Pirates.

A word from
THERON at the Old Country Store

I heard over the radio the other day if you want to scare birds away, put up something big, bright and red.

I have been saying for some time that trading stamps are for the birds. I see where most of the merchants are taking down their big trading stamp signs from their windows. I believe they were scaring away some of the more desirable species. I don't know how desirable I am but they sure stop me.

So They Say

In our country, the attack on freedom of speech and freedom of inquiry (by conservative groups) is frequently masked as a crusade against Communist subversion... Progress is often branded as alien Marxism by those who are committed to the status quo, if not the status quo ante.—Gov. Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin.

Revlon Inc. Accused Of Rigging Prices

NEW YORK (AP)—The federal government has accused Revlon Inc., one of the nation's largest cosmetic manufacturers, of rigging prices on wholesale and retail levels.

The company denies the charge. In a civil anti-trust complaint filed Friday in federal court, the government contended also that the New York City firm illegally allocated sales territories and customers in violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act.

The complaint said Revlon's sales represent about 25 per cent of the cosmetic business done by drug and department stores in the United States.

The government asked for a court order to prohibit the firm from anti-trust practices, which it said dates back to 1952.

In denying the charges, Revlon issued a statement saying: "We intend to fight this complaint with all the vigor and talent at our disposal, in behalf of not only ourselves but of our customers."

Russia Vetoes India-Pakistan Talks on Kashmir

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The Soviet Union cast its 100th Security Council veto Friday night, killing off a move to bring India and Pakistan together for new talks on their 15-year-old Kashmir dispute.

The 11-nation council adjourned after U.S. Delegate Adlai E. Stevenson denounced the veto—which automatically defeated a resolution introduced by Ireland—as a willful abuse of the United Nations.

Platon D. Morozov, the Soviet delegate, assailed the resolution introduced by Ireland as "inspired and prepared by the United States." He said it had "a foul odor to it."

The Soviet Union and Romania cast the no votes, while Ghana and the United Arab Republic abstained. The other seven members voted yes, but the Soviet "no" constituted a big power veto that doomed the resolution.

Thus the council, which started the current series of meetings at the request of Pakistan last Feb. 1, wound up after nearly five months with nothing concrete to offer the main parties in the marathon dispute.

Ambassador Frederick H. Boland of Ireland pleaded for adoption of the resolution, which he said reflected the widest measure of common agreement existing at the present time.

But India's Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon objected that the resolution treated Pakistan on the same basis as India although "they are the aggressors and we are the aggrieved."

Ratterman Jury Gets Weekend Off

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — The jury in the trial of six men charged with violating the civil rights of Campbell County Sheriff George Ratterman have the weekend off from their deliberations.

The three women and nine men got the case at 10:07 a.m. Friday. At 6:30 p.m. they filed into the courtroom and told U.S. District Judge Mac Swinford they had been unable to reach a decision.

"It's important that this case be decided. Some jury has to decide it. I'm not going to discharge you," Judge Swinford said. "I'm going to let you go home until Monday morning."

The jurors have to decide whether any or all of the six defendants are guilty of conspiracy and or actual violation of Ratterman's civil rights in connection with the former professional football player's arrest in a vice raid on May 9, 1961. He was elected sheriff six months later.

Charged are Newport Police Chief Upshere White and Detectives Patrick Ciafardini and Joseph Quitter; attorney Charles E. Lester of Fort Thomas, and the co-owners of the old Glenn Hotel and Tropicana Night Club in Newport, Tito Carinci and Edward Bucciari.

If convicted, they could be sentenced to a year in prison and a $1,000 fine on each charge.

Warning the jury against discussing the case during the weekend Judge Swinford also asked them to have someone else answer their phones first. He said they may receive anonymous telephone calls.
